Bernard Zyscovich : Getting Real About Urbanism before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Getting Real About Urbanism:

Fighting the trend to design cookie-cutter urban communities, this resource looks at city planning and design in a multi-dimensional way paying attention to the history and environment of a particular area in order to create places with identifiable character and personality.

About the Author Bernard Zyscovich has been an architect for more than 25 years, with his private firm designing a broad scope of award-winning projects in both public and private sectors. He is the former president of the Miami Chapter of the American Institute of Architects, and currently serves on the City of Miami Urban Development Board. He lives in Miami.
