

(Free read ebook) Global Competition Law and Economics: Second Edition

Global Competition Law and Economics: Second Edition

Einer Elhauge, Damien Geradin
*ebooks | Download PDF | ePub | DOC | audiobook

DOWNLOAD

READ ONLINE

#1131043 in Books Hart Publishing 2011-08-01 Original language: English PDF # 1 9.50 x 1.60 x 6.80l, 2.91
#File Name: 18494604421324 pages | File size: 76.Mb

Einer Elhauge, Damien Geradin : Global Competition Law and Economics: Second Edition before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Global Competition Law and Economics: Second Edition:

3 of 3 people found the following review helpful. I had great success teaching with this book..By Robert H. LandeI had great success using the galley of Global Competition Law Economics to teach comparative competition/antitrust law at the University of Haifa Law School during the summer of 2006, to both American and Israeli law students. This textbook is the first and only one on the market that is extremely well suited for use in a comparative competition law or antitrust law class. When I taught comparative antitrust/competition law in Scotland a few years ago I had to put my own material together because there was no comparative textbook on the market suitable for classroom use. It is simply astonishing that, even though knowledge of European competition law has been important for a United States antitrust lawyer for more than a decade - and vice-versa! - until now there was no single volume that bridged these fields comprehensively. But at long last the market has filled this considerable gap - by producing Global Competition Law Economics. This is an extraordinarily teachable book that contains everything you might want to present in a comparative competition or antitrust law class. It always contained exactly what I was looking for - the relevant background, and both the similarities and the areas of greatest contrasts between the United States and the European systems. Moreover, it contains so much of each type of material that the instructor gets the pleasure of picking and choosing which of their favorite topics to cover. Both the law and the economics are extremely clearly and interestingly presented. I used it to teach a class of students who has never before taken a class in antitrust or competition law. For this reason we had to omit much of the book's more sophisticated material. However, I have no doubt that anyone teaching an upper level class for students who already have taken a basic class in United States antitrust law or EU competition law would find this more advanced material extremely useful. Its mix of background material and state-of-the-art material should make it similarly valuable for competition/antitrust lawyers who have an international practice. I believe I speak for comparative competition/antitrust teachers everywhere when I say "thank you". Finally, the comparative book we have been waiting for has arrived. Finally, the comparative competition/antitrust field has a standard textbook to use. And what a wonderful standard it is.

Robert H. Lande Venable Professor of Law University of Baltimore School of Law

0 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Make you think By mf Purchasing the book by chance as am having competition law course. It is comprehensive with introduction and illustration of the legal principles prior to showing the cases, in particular, the authors have listed lots of question for reader to think about the cases, as well as questions for the legislation and comparison between the US and EC law, in which only the book from Areeda in the Antitrust Analysis do in the same field. Take it... 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Awesome By Law student Terrific book, easy to read and interesting. Will be taking an Antitrust course with Damien Geradin and I'm really looking forward to it.

Antitrust law is now a truly global phenomenon, with markets becoming increasingly global, mergers requiring approval in several different jurisdictions, cartels in one nation affecting supply in others, and countries increasingly entering into treaties with each other about the content or enforcement of competition law. Lawyers and lawmakers cannot rely on understanding only the antitrust and competition law of their home country. Modern antitrust law is also different because it now reflects an increasingly economic approach to analyzing antitrust and competition policy. This innovative and acclaimed book on global antitrust law - now in its second edition - is truly the only comparative and economically sophisticated casebook on the market. For scholars and students in all jurisdictions that have competition laws, this casebook provides an in-depth analysis of the two major global antitrust regimes in the world, as well as a summary of selected national antitrust laws. As such, it will also serve as a useful reference for practitioners, competition officials, and policy-makers interested in competition law.

The selection of cases and materials in this book is excellent. Practically, all the 'classics' and important recent decisions in US antitrust and EU competition law are included, along with excerpts from secondary legislation and guidelines. The editing strikes a perfect balance: the excerpts include all the important passages and put them into context, but at the same time the snippets are kept to a student-friendly length. In contrast to many other casebooks, which too often confine themselves to a series of case excerpts and extracts from secondary sources without guiding the student through this material, the book by Elhauge and Geradin contains copious amounts of helpful introductory and explanatory comment and questions to guide the student. For comparative competition law courses with a main focus on the US and the EU, this is simply the best book on the market and should be adopted as the course book.

(Florian Wagner-von Papp World Competition) Pour tout praticien de la concurrence, cet ouvrage est fort utile et sa consultation ne peut tre que recommande (Laurence Idot, Professeur l'Universit Panthon-Assas (Paris 2) Annuaire de Droit Europeen) About the Author Einer Elhauge is Petrie Professor of Law at Harvard Law School. Damien Geradin is a partner at Covington Burling. He is also a Professor of Competition Law and Economics at Tilburg University, and a Cook Global Professor at the University of Michigan Law School.