Lisa Rademakers, Daniel Coleman, Samson Reiny : Spinoff, 2016 (Spinoff, Annual Report) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Spinoff, 2016 (Spinoff, Annual Report):

This annual volume, available as a Standing Order by using Standing Order code: ZSPIN to for immediate shipment upon new year stock Sign up for product standing orders at this link: <https://bookstore.gpo.gov/standing-orders> The 2016 Spinoff volume features 52 technologies. Each year, Spinoff features dozens of commercial products derived from NASA technology that are improving everything from medical care and software tools to agricultural production and vehicle efficiency. The companies featured in this years publication span a broad range of industries and geographic locations, showing the diverse benefits our Nation enjoys from its investment in aeronautics and space missions. Private industry manufacturers, scientists, inventors, operational improvement officers, American citizens, and students may be most interested in these NASA developments that impact human life. Since this text is highly illustrated throughout, middle school through high school students could use this resource for classroom essays and undergraduate and graduate students could use this scientific resource for further research and development based on these featured technologies. Middle school, high school, academic, including community college, and public libraries will want to have this resource in their science and technology collections for patron use and research. Other products produced by NASA can be found here: <https://bookstore.gpo.gov/agency/550>
