I'm only to section five and already, I've been nearly completely confused. The authors chose, for some reason, to number each paragraph in each section, which doesn't seem to have any real meaning as some paragraphs concern different topics, but follow the number sequence of the unrelated paragraphs above. A bit difficult to explain without showing an example--you'll see what I mean if you buy this guide. It seems the entire text jumps from topic to topic without any warning, which makes this entirely more difficult to follow than it should be. Random words, phrases and sentences are placed in quotations, bold text or underlined, but there are no apparent reasons why that particular part of the text should be given special emphasis. There are even some instances where entire paragraphs are bolded. My personal suggestion is to save your money and buy a better book on HIPAA / HITECH. This one is just far too poorly written to make it worthwhile. There may be some useful information in the pages of this guide, but trying to find it is a chore. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Three Stars By techgear It's okay.
