From Europa Law Publishing : The Procedural Aspects of the Application of Competition Law: European Frameworks - Central European Perspectives before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The Procedural Aspects of the Application of Competition Law: European

Frameworks - Central European Perspectives:

Although substantive competition law has been largely "Europeanized," procedural law comes (for the most part) under the autonomy of the Member States. For a long time, thinking on the procedural aspects of competition law's application was not the focus of European scholarship. Nonetheless, recently, "procedure" became one of the most topical issues of European competition law and came to the fore of scholarly discourse. This edited volume addresses the above subject's pan-European framework and its Central European perspectives with the purpose of channeling the region's experiences into the European discourse. The book's first part (Section 1) examines the general issues of the procedural aspects of competition law's application, while Sections 2 and 3 analyze the administrative competition procedure (and judicial review) and the legal consequences of breaching competition rules in the Czech Republic, Hungary, Poland, Romania, and Slovakia.
